The diagram shows a hierarchical tree structure. The root node is a red rectangle. It branches into two children: a red rectangle (top) and a blue rectangle (bottom). This pattern continues for several levels. At each level, the red node branches into a red and a blue child, while the blue node branches into two blue children. The tree terminates in a single grey rectangle on the right, which is the child of the final red node. The nodes are connected by horizontal and vertical lines, indicating the parent-child relationships.
