Welcome to Bosnia and Herzegovina

Welcome to Brcko distrikt

Brcko is situated in the north-east Bosnia and Herzegovina, on the right bank of Sava River. The important junction of local and international roads leading from East to West and from North to South defines its well-located tourist and geographic position. Brcko is located 200 km away from Sarajevo and Belgrade, and about 300 km away from Zagreb. It is 30 km away from the international highway of the Pan-European character Corridor X (the Belgrade – Zagreb highway).

Brcko covers the area of 493 km² (1% of the B&H territory).

According to the unofficial estimates about 100.000 people live in the area of Brcko. Thanks to the two types of geographical relief that can be noticed in the area of brcko, vales and hills, favorable conditions for agriculture and cattle-breeding exist in it.

Road Communications

Thanks to the quality of its roads and suitable location in relation to other road communications, Brcko has built up an image of a transit city and important transportation junction in Bosnia and Herzegovina. When it comes to railway traffic Brcko represents an exit of Bosnia and Herzegovina to Croatia. The railway connects Brcko with midland and significant industrial capacities of the Tuzla basin and with the Ploce port and Adriatic Sea.

Climate

Brcko has a moderate continental climate with warm summers and moderately cold winters. Being situated on the banks of Sava River its reaches its prime in spring and fall when beauties of its nature are accentuated.

History

As a fortified settlement Brcko was mentioned for the first time in 1526 and 1533. According to some literary sources, it started developing after 1548 when a road to Tuzla was built. Since March 8, 2000 Brcko has had the status of a district in Bosnia and Herzegovina and today it is an example of a successfully developed community.

Culture

For many centuries now different cultures, traditions and customs, which have been inherited and preserved until the present times through the activities of cultural clubs, associations and institutions, have interlocked in Brcko. Today Brcko is a city where recognized cultural events and activities take place throughout the year.
